

How to 'zero in'

By Mike Davis

Whether it's wind, a bad lie, noise from other players—whatever—you have to block out distractions. Putting can be the toughest part of the game in which to maintain focus. Don't even address a putt until you commit to seeing the ball go in the hole and your mind is focused on playing the shot. (From page 195.)